MIDDLE TENN. FARM NEWS

Prepared Exclusively for the Chronicle by Division of Extension, College of Agriculture, University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

Crimson clover is without an equal among the winter crops grown in Tennessee for use as cover crops, pastures and green manures. For these purposes it is harder and earlier than red clover, earlier than hairy vetch making it superior for winter pasture and for turning under in the spring.

Its superiority over the grains lies in the fact that it adds nitrogen to the soil while the grains do not. Clover decays more rapidly in the soil and its effect is quicker. It is a richer feed. Then why NOT crimson clover?

GRAINS AS COVER CROPS.

Small grains may be used as cover crops but merely to prepare the way for clover and should be turned under it possible. Wheat and rye are better adapted to the lighter soils and later seeding than oats or barley, though the latter crops produce more pastures of better quality upon rich soil.

BEEF BREEDERS AT NASHVILLE.

On the state fair grounds, Nashville, November 24, 1916, under the auspices of the Middle Tennessee Beef Breeders' Association, will be held a show and sale of fine Hereford cattle.

Fifty head exclusive of calves will come from the farms of several breeders in Middle Tennessee. These cattle will be the best individuals from several herds and will be well conditioned for the sale. There will be eighteen bulls, several of which are two and three years old; twenty young cows, the majority with calves; fifteen bred and open heifers. Nearly all of these cattle are Tennessee bred and none of them have been purchased for the sale.

A feature of this sale which is characterizing many of the best sales of the country is to have the cattle judged before the sale and then sold to the highest bidder in the order in which they have been placed. This feature is very educational and creates a great deal of interest.

WHEN TO STOP CHURNING.

On most farms where butter is made the barrel churn is used. To get the best butter several things must be observed. The handling of the butter after it is churned will make it either good or bad depending upon the skill of the operator.

Churning should cease when the granules of butter are about the size of large wheat grains. The buttermilk and the wash water can then be drained out and the salt mixed uniformly throughout the butter.

This is important, for if the churn is run too long and the butter is gathered in a large mass it is almost impossible to get the salt properly distributed through the butter. The result is a product that does not taste well, and so does not sell well.

WHAT BANKERS THINK.

"A growing legume crop on every possible acre" should be the watchword of countrymen and townsmen alike, because it means the use and saving of their common treasure—the soil."

That is one paragraph of a printed circular on legumes which is being distributed by the banks of Tennessee. It is an indication of what the circular states in another place that if banks are to prosper permanently their farmer patrons must also prosper, that farmers cannot long prosper without the use of legumes.

Clovers and other legumes can be depended upon to enrich our soils. The bankers are interested in seeing the farms grow more and better crops.

BETTER TEETH—BETTER HEALTH

If the men and women of Tennessee, and the men and women of all states, were to use the tooth brush more there would be less sickness.

This fact is causing many county superintendents of education to have each pupil's teeth inspected.

A child that has bad teeth cannot be healthy. Healthy children do better school work than those who are sick. The county superintendents are right in introducing this great work.

But such work should start in the home. When it does it prepares the family against the diseases passing over the county. The person with his "fighting blood," up is the one who can withstand disease germs and come out with good health.

The tooth brush used regularly will bring better health to your family.

Private advice from Washington discloses the fact that the Wilson mal-administration is becoming alarmed at the bombs hurled by Judge Hughes into the rabid ranks of the democratic party. Preparations are being made by the democrats to trot out their best and most entertaining spell-binders for they realize that they re like the old woman—got a "job on hand"—since Judge Hughes began delivering his broadsides, while swining around the circle. If any administration ever has furnished the campaign thunder necessary for its own destruction, then it is the one that now slowly drags its sinuous, equivocating existence through the portals of this government at Washington, D. C. There is a sermon in every crook and a crook in every movement made since the present administration began. As an example of the erratic and vacillating course of the administration, observe the continued mobilization of military troops on the Mexican border when no state of war exists. Why not issue another call to arms and patrol the Canadian boundary from New Brunswick to Vancouver island with the brawn and muscle of American manhood? 'T would be about as logical, wouldn't it, Eugene? The brand of weather furnished lately by the weather man is becoming decidedly unpopular over here. He gives us the right warp but the wrong woof. If Dame Fashion would issue an ultimatum abolishing clothing and declare it a nuisance it would help the situation some. As conditions are the women have all the advantage over the men.

There's to be an anti-saloon meeting held at the Methodist church next Sunday with an address by the President of the State Anti-Saloon League. Other churches of the town will attend. Aug. 21. Harry Hukes.

Pomona

The first teachers' institute of the year was held here Saturday, and proved to be both enjoyable and instructive. The meeting opened with our national song, "America," and a prayer by Rev. Renfro. This was followed by the address of welcome by Miss Ollie Barnes, and the response by S. A. Tucker. Then J. L. Converse gave an able talk on "Opportunities for Agricultural Improvement in Cumberland County." A few words of encouragement were added by Prof. J. S. Cline and the discussion ended by an interesting talk from Prof. W. E. Wheeler, in which he told of farm and community life in New England—his former home—and where he has spent the last two months. He brought forth in his talk the truth that Cumberland county has as great an opportunity for growth as was ever offered by the part of New England under discussion, and it rests with the people whether they grasp these opportunities or not. Herman Hendley then gave a talk in favor of special exercises Friday afternoon. The meeting was then dismissed and a sumptuous dinner was served in the yard. The afternoon session opened with a strong talk on "Opportunity and Advantages of the Country Teacher for Community Leadership," by M. L. Taylor. Then Prof. H. H. Vincent discussed School Government in his usual interesting way. A very instructive talk on first and second grade work was given by Mrs. Charles Keyes. Prof. Cline took the opportunity to speak of the criticisms that have been hurled at the school board concerning the appointment of teachers for this term, and defended the board in their action, believing, as he said, that they had done the best they could in the matter. Then a lively discussion for and against state examination followed. The interesting meeting was ended by the statement by Prof. Cline that he intended to see that the school attendance law is enforced; and in this matter he should receive the hearty co-operation of every citizen of the county. Several of the teachers who were to give talks were absent, which was quite a disappointment to the chairman, Miss Dora Hamby, who had worked so faithfully to make the meeting a success. But in spite of this disappointment all present feel that the meeting was an entire success. If the teacher who is appointed on the program can not attend, why can he not prepare a paper on the subject assigned him and mail it to the chairman? This could be given to some one else to read, and would save much confusion and annoyance at the last. The next meeting will be held at Taylor's Chapel, Sept. 16th.
